HIGH RUSSIAN SOURCE REVEALS HITLER'S BODY HAS BEEN FOUND AND IDENTIFIED WITH FAIR CERTAINTY; FOUND IN FORTRESS BENEATH REICHSCHANCELLORY

Our Bodies Discovered; Burned From The
Flame-Throwers

SYMPTOMS OF POISON

to Hint Given As To How
His and Other Bodies Were Disposed Of

By International News Service

BERLIN, June 6.—A high Russian military source revealed today that Hitler's body had been found and identified with fair certainty.
The body, smoke-blackened and warred, was one of four discovered in the ruins of the great underground fortress beneath the new Reichschancellory after the fall of Berlin.

All four bodies were badly burned from the flame throwers with which the Red Army finally cleared out the underground command post where Hitler and his leading Nazis made their last ditch stand.

After careful examination of Hitler and other characteristics the Russians singled out one body which they believe almost certainly was that of the Nazi Fuehrer.

Examination of the body showed that Hitler almost certainly died of poisoning. Whether this was self-administered or whether Hitler was killed by one of his henchmen there are no means of knowing.

It will be recalled, however, that Russian sources recently reported that Hitler died of an injection
given him by his physician, Dr.
Goebbels, after he had been insane
and paralyzed for several days.

According to a telegram sent by propaganda Minister Dr. Goebbels to Adm. Doenitz, Hitler died at 3.30 p. m. on May 1.

The Russians have given no hint
as to how the bodies of Hitler, Goebbels and the other Nazis found in Berlin have been disposed of.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

U. S. Tries to Heal French-British Breach

Paris.—The United States Government was disclosed today to have undertaken the difficult task of trying to heal the breach which has developed between France and Britain over the Syrian affair.
International News Service learned that American diplomats, on the one hand, are emphasizing to the French government that the interests of France are bound to suffer most if the situation in the Middle East is permitted to undermine Anglo-French relations.
On the other hand, the British government is being urged to show greater consideration of the present super-sensitive state of French national pride. Those who have seen Gen. De Gaulle describe him as seething with rage at the British.

Tension Mounts on Outcome of Moscow Negotiations

San Francisco.—Tension mounted at the United Nations Conference today on the outcome of Moscow negotiations over the Big Five veto issue.

This was the day which had been tentatively marked for adjournment of the peace-charter meeting. It dawned with the veto question deadlocked and with 89 other problems still unsettled in a conference certain to last another 12 to 14 days.

If Russia refuses to back down on its demand for a "strict" application of the veto right, the issue would be thrown into committee for a vote with the Big Four opposing the Soviet position. There were indications of strong concern among conference leaders over this likelihood.
The American delegation, it was made absolutely plain, will not give in to what it regards as a fundamental interpretation of the Yalta agreement—that the Security Council veto right should not be carried so far as to block "discussion" of a dispute. The Soviet "interpretation" holds that the U. S.-British-Russian-Chinese-French veto power should be applicable to that extent, even though it may never be used.

TIME TO CHANGE

It ought to be obvious to everyone that events of the last two weeks call for a complete and drastic overhaul of the New Deal's plans for "internationalism."

Under the build-up of "preparing for peace," the United States has been urged to adopt a number of dangerous experiments.

These include the broadening of the Trade Agreements program and the Bretton Woods Banking plan.

They are dangerous because, if they were to backfire, the effects upon American economy could easily become disastrous. They are experiments because no other nation in history has undertaken such programs, and even their exponents do not really know how they would work.

Both projects, and others similar to them, should be shelved at least until we know where America stands with the other nations of the world.

If Russia, now the largest and strongest nation on the globe, is really determined to go her own way regardless of the Crimean and San Francisco suggestions, and if France is determined to play along with Russia, organized peace is out of the question at the present time.

And if there is not going to be a world organization,
embracing all the larger and most of the smaller nations, committing all of them to a give-and-take program of cooperation, then every argument ever advanced for trade agreements and international banking collapses.

Yet the Truman administration, which indorsed these and similar programs long before the new president could possibly have had time to learn their details—let alone pass judgment on them—continues to press for Congress to pass the laws.

History is probably going to pass a severe judgment on President Truman.

Already, during the few weeks he has been in office,
he has rashly and hastily decided matters which deserved exhaustive consultation and study.

It took him about five minutes to decide to go ahead with the San Francisco conference, when it should have been obvious that the agreement might be headed for the rocks,—that a bad situation had been made worse by President Roosevelt's death.

In a couple of days he was indorsing the trade agreements and Bretton Woods schemes—plans of such delicacy and complexity that there is great disagreement even among the New Dealers as to how they would work and what they would accomplish.

Truman's folly in rushing in where angels would fear to tread probably will prove his own undoing, which is largely his own concern; but it may also prove the undoing of all the constructive plans for world peace which peoples of the earth have earned by an extremely bloody war. That is the concern of the present and many future generations.

Whether the beans already have been spilled, and so much happened that no real get-together of the larger nations will be possible for months if not years, is not yet completely clear.

It certainly is obvious, however, that it is no longer safe to assume that there is going to be peace, harmony and co-operation among the world's nations.

The trade agreements were designed for an era of "internationalism" which has been replaced, temporarily,
at least, by nationalism and spheres of influence.

If outright war does not follow, at least there are bound to be bitter trade wars.

READS PRIZE-WINNING ESSAY AT GRADUATION

Miss Vivian Taylor Tells of Greatest Man Who Ever Lived

CHRIST IS THE SUBJECT

Miss Vivian Taylor, winner of the Grundy medal which was presented at commencement exercises of Bristol high school last evening, also read on that occasion her prize-winning essay.

The essay written by Miss Taylor was titled "In My Opinion—The Greatest Man Who Ever Lived."
The essay won for her the Mothers
Association annual essay award.

The essay follows:
In My Opinion—The Greatest Man
Who Ever Lived

I sincerely believe that there are few who will disagree with me as I state that Jesus Christ is the greatest man who ever lived. I say "He" because his spirit is living today in the hearts of men all over the world and exerting a profound influence on their thoughts and actions. His kind, loving heart is as much alive at the present time as it was almost 2,000 years ago. Through the ages he has been the Savior and Personal Friend of many sincere and ardent Christians. Those who cannot believe that He is the Son of God agree that His character has ever been unequaled. Paradoxically, those who believe Him divine agree that during His years on earth He was completely human with human sufferings and temptations. I shall in this essay concern myself only with the personality and character of Jesus the Man.

Harvest Follows Sowing

(By "The Stroller")
A group of young people were seen in an unusual occupation during the mid-night hours a few nights ago—gathering straw on Mill street.

No, there had been no crop cut on that busy thoroughfare. They were merely reaping their mild
"wild oats."

A strawride had taken the group around the nearby countryside and arriving back in town someone in the party had the bright idea that inasmuch as the straw was no longer needed by the riders, they might as well distribute it as they went along Mill street. And so, arm-load after arm-load was thrown from the wagon.

The young folks continued through the borough and reached the fourth ward. But in the meantime two of Bristol's policemen opened their eyes wide when they traversed Mill street in the patrol car. They continued their drive and finally caught up with the wagon on Buckley street, the occupants being in the act of leaving the vehicle.

So the riders who had so freely enjoyed their "sowing" were invited to participate in a midnight harvest, with the officers as on-lookers.

Grundy Medal Presented To
Vivian Taylor; Average

NUMEROUS AWARDS

Commencement Project Is
"Education and The People's Peace"

At an impressive and timely program in the Grand Theatre last evening, marking the commencement exercises of the 62nd class of Bristol high school, diplomas were awarded to 91 young people. Five others who had received their diplomas in February at the time they entered the armed forces, brought the total of graduates in the class of 1945 to 96.

Three of the 91 who were recipients of diplomas last evening, and who are in the service, were present to accept their awards, while two others were represented by their parents.

Numerous prizes were given by representatives of various organizations, and the Grundy medal was presented to a young woman whose scholastic average for the four years of high school work was 96.468. Winner of the Grundy medal in Vivian Taylor, the presentation being made by Earl McEuen, president of Bristol borough school board. In announcing this award
Mr. McEuen stated that the three young women next highest in scholastic average for the four years were exceptionally close. Shirley Peet, second honor student, had an average of 91.967; Elizabeth Lebo, third honor student, 91.303; and Mary Elizabeth Finegan, 91. Two others had averages of 90 or above, these being Chester DeLuca, 90.589;
and Emma Melidlo, 90.927.

The theme of the commencement project was "Education and The People's Peace," a number of the graduates participating. The word
"Peace" was formed in large white letters high above the graduates as they assembled on the platform in gray caps and gowns. The background for "Peace" was a huge American flag. Baskets of flowers were arranged at the front of the stage, while in a prominent place was a chair, draped in the national colors representing the graduates who are in the service. Flags of the United Nations were arranged at the sides of the stage.

Immediately following the processional "Land of Hope and Glory" (Elgar), played by the high school band, the color guard and five young women in their band uniforms, took their positions at the front of the stage for the flag salute and the singing of the national anthem. The invocation was by the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans, pastor of Bristol Presbyterian Church.

Marvin Collins, president of the class, in his welcome, stressed the importance of winning the peace.

The commencement theme "Education and The People's Peace" was capably presented by student speakers and singers; and in the concluding portion "The American Youth Replies" students represented a cross-section of America. Included in this latter part were the reading of letters from Bristol high school graduates serving on far-flung battle-fronts and in training.

NOT TOO DARK

Within the next three months, according to War Production Board Chairman Krug, cut-backs in the munitions program will result in spreading unemployment to 1,900,000 workers as compared to the 800,000 now alleged to be jobless. This total, he believes, will fall back to 1,300,000 at the end of six months as civilian output gets under way.

This is not too dark a picture of the immediate future, considering that this country has never had actual "full employment" in all its history. Unemployment right now is probably close to the irreducible minimum, because there are always some idle workers even when labor shortages are acute, and it could probably double without serious effects on the economy as a whole.

It is definitely encouraging that Mr. Krug's view is more optimistic than that of War Mobilization and Reconversion Director Vinson, who has estimated that there will be 2,500,000 unemployed at the end of the year.

Unemployment would be still less of a problem, moreover, if displaced munitions workers would accept jobs in other essential industries. Efforts to get them to shift, Mr. Krug admits, have met with "little success" because the men concerned will not go into lower-paid occupations. He suggests that wage adjustments will be the best means of solving this difficulty.

Any such adjustments should be approached with caution. Not only should they come within the stabilization program, as he proposes, but they ought not to alter the normal balance more than is absolutely necessary.

REMARKABLE RECORD

The United States Navy performed a marvelous feat in escorting ships across the Atlantic during the European War.

A Washington dispatch, which announced that merchant ships in non-combat areas are sailing fully lighted and without naval escorts, carried the information that during the war in Europe the United States Navy escorted 16,769 ships across the Atlantic in 3,552 escort trips. It reported that in the same period only fifteen ships sailing in convoy were lost to German submarines.

The problem of estimating the percentage of escorted ships lost can be left to any bright school child. Most adults will be satisfied with the figures as they are. Only fifteen lost out of 16,769.

The protection which the Navy provided trans-Atlantic vessels was made necessary by a grave submarine menace. The Germans had been experts in submarine warfare in the First World War and had the advantage of considerable improvements in submarine construction in World War II. It is a great tribute to the efficiency of the United States Navy that it kept convoy losses so low despite the U-boat peril.

Prices of new motor cars are still a mystery. Announcement which said they would be priced to fit the average purse did not elucidate whether now or later.

Sent To Jail For Robberies Here

Bogdzio and Louis Murkli, are serving prison sentences now for the same offenses committed with Sobierajski, one being in the Northampton County Prison.

Chief of Bucks County Detectives Anthony Russo testified that the trio were implicated in 35 burglaries and larcenies in New Jersey, five in Bucks county, two in Northampton county and one in Philadelphia, involving stolen goods valued at $20,000 back in 1940.

"The Northampton county court certainly was not informed of your long record, from the length of the sentence imposed in Easton; I cannot understand that," commented Judge Keller during the hearing. "We are giving you credit for some five years that you have served in success, but had it not been for your Easton sentence you would have received 10 to 20 years here," the court added.

Sobierajski, who testified that he drove his automobile that carried the other two, stated that he did none of the actual burglary in Bucks county. He admitted that he took part in burglaries at the homes of Frederick Carter and Edward Nichols, in Edgely; the home of William Jacoby, in Bensalem township; the home of John J. Doyle, New Britain; and the home of Mrs. Marion Tranch, Doylestown, all in 1940.

Jewelry and guns, mostly, were stolen. The jewelry was sent to Chicago and sold for old gold, the defendant testified.

Attorney Webster S. Achey, for the defendant, informed the court that his client had a brother-in-law in Trenton who conducts butcher shops and who would be willing to give Sobierajski a job if the court saw fit to parole him.

"There's no meat to sell at this time," Judge Keller answered Attorney Achey.

Chief of Police Harry Christ, of Morrisville, who was a State trooper when the arrests in the case were made, testified that he had obtained confessions from Sobierajski and his two pals.

"There is very little hope for you at this time," Judge Keller told Sobierajski.

had a sincere interest and faith in mankind. His own life interest was so faultless that he inspired the good in those with whom he came in contact. He hated laziness, duplicity and brutality and evidenced that fact by his words and actions. There were many who hated him for this reason, but there were some who, though they could not completely understand him, loved him deeply.

He was tender-hearted and compassionate, suffering mentally with the miserable and many times suffering physically because he refused to abandon his way of life. His final suffering was his tragic death upon the cross, which has moved all generations.

In his life he loved all men, regardless of color, race or position in life. He was criticized because he associated with publicans and sinners. His reply embodied the thought that those whom we well need a physician. He was the soothing, healing balm to many sick souls, and is the remedy for the terrible illness which is crippling the world today.

There is hope for the world of tomorrow if individuals and nations make themselves responsive to his influences and wholeheartedly attempt to follow the examples of this greatest man who ever lived.

I know I've been an awful grouch not taking you any place lately. But after standing all day at my new job, my feet darn near killed me with callosities and burning. Now I've reformed—or rather my feet have—thanks to the medicinal Ice-Mint you advised. Never tried anything that seemed to draw the pain and fire right out so fast—and the way it helps soften callosities is no body's business! There is a dangerous curve downward of motor vehicles still running. The average car is eight years old and over. One out of every six cars on the road today is driving for the junk pile. Unless you are extra cautious—unless you drive carefully and have your car inspected regularly—YOUR CAR MAY BE THE ONE.

The current Pennsylvania inspection period expires July 31 and there will be no extension—no period of grace. If you have not yet had your car inspected—do so at once. Avoid the last-minute rush at inspection stations. Allow your mechanic enough time to thoroughly inspect the brakes... lights... tires and motor.

State inspection is a vital safety measure to make certain your car is safe to drive and to protect the public.

By having your car inspected now, you are co-operating with the war effort. Every car on the road today is carrying an important war load. Keep your car on the road.

Champion Pointer

LAHASKA, June 7.—One of Pennsylvania's leading conservationists, J. Allen Barrett, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, held at the Midway Fire Co. station here Monday evening when he told delegates and guests of some of the work the Fish Commission and then spoke on the subject, "Your Boy and Mine."

Barrett, who is editor of the Pennsylvania Angler, lecturer for the Fish Commission, and chief of the Educational Department of the Commission, also showed several reels of very timely movies following his talk.

Another highlight of the program, attended by delegates from 12 Bucks County clubs, was a demonstration by L. J. B. Simson, Princeton, recently released from the U. S. Army K-9 Corps, who gave an exhibition of his famous pointer, "Giraldia Flash," three-time Obedience Grand Champion.

"If you are a fisherman," Barrett said, "and fortunate enough to be the father of a son but inconsiderate enough never to have taken him along fishing, then you have failed, yes failed miserably, in an important responsibility you owe him."

"Would you deliberately cause or allow your child to suffer the bitter pangs of disappointment and base denial if it were easy for you to effectively prevent it? No, of course you wouldn't! Yet how many men are doing that very thing every day. Sad little hearts made sadder, hurt and bleeding for the companionship of a father."

"Remember, there is no man bigger, no hero greater, no admiration more sincere and I sometimes suspect that no love surpasses the love that reposes in the heart of a little boy for his dad."

"Make room! Be the companion he wants you to be and take him along fishing. If you do this I assure you, you'll never be sorry."

"And if there is to be any solution to the many perplexing problems of conservation, I say, we need to take our boys and girls along out fishing. They are entitled to share and enjoy this birthright, their own heritage, the natural resources of our great outdoors."

"Take them along, out there in the same environment where a courageous and determined ancestor fought for and cradled this great nation of free men. Make your child, your boy or your neighbor's boy an everlasting integral part of it."

"Take time to point out and instruct them in the many phases of woodcraftmanship, the countless essentials so important to the conservation of our forests, the trees, the streams, animals, birds, our fish, the flowers and plants. Set the proper example and you will produce a conservationist."

"A rising generation of understanding, clean, honest citizens imbued with the will to preserve. I know of no other medium or environment wherein can be created and molded real red-blooded Americanism as compares with the noble and rather sacred laboratory of our own outdoors."

Chairman Allan Woolf, Morrisville, presided. Delegates from following Clubs were on hand: Bristol, Edgely, Morrisville, New Hope, Middletown, Delaware Valley, Great Swamp, Langhorne, Newtown, Paledown, Yardley and Penn Manor. Brief remarks were made by Harry Z. Cole, State Fish Warden, and Earl Carpenter, County Game Protector.

As a result of resolutions presented by delegates from Clubs from the lower end of the County the Federation will seek the aid of the Department of Forests and Waters in having the level of the Canal raised to insure better fishing.

LANGHORNE

The Friendly Sewing Circle will hold a luncheon and social on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Fred. Shee.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lloyd, Philadelphia, spent Memorial Day at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Arthur S. Walker.

Mrs. Flora VanArtsdalen and daughters Lillian and Hilda, Mrs. George Hackett, of Yardley, and Mrs. Elliott Thompson, of Christiana, were visitors here on Memorial Day.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Harvey Krouse will leave Langhorne this week to take up their residence near Pittsburgh.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Though all Pennsylvania water has its source in rain or snow, the chemical contents of no two streams in the State are the same. This is due, in part, to the nature of the soil through which the water of our streams must filter and to the types of industry which make use of the water supply on its way to the sea. Since water is essential to human life and is a vital raw material for many types of manufacturing, a knowledge of the chemical composition of our water is as important for the welfare of the industries and the public health of the State as the character of soil is to a farmer.

Water has been called the "universal solvent" since it dissolves almost all minerals to a greater or less degree. Some waters are hard because of the calcium and magnesium in the rocks and soil over which they flow. Some waters contain sulphur, iron, aluminum and manganese and some a small percentage of fluorine. All these chemicals are commonly found in pure and uncontaminated waters. Some are beneficial and some are not. In a state like Pennsylvania which is the center of many great industries, various types of foreign matter also find their way into the water system and must be dealt with if the taste and quality of the water are to be preserved.

For several years the State Planning Board has been promoting a program for the analysis of all the streams and rivers of the State. With the cooperation of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters and the United States Geological Survey such a study is now under way and will be continued as a permanent part of the program for improving the character of the State's water. The first results of this State-wide analysis of Pennsylvania's water will shortly be released by the Planning Board. It contains the chemical analysis of the surface waters of the Delaware, Susquehanna, and Ohio river basins during low flow periods between July and October 1944. Analyses of the river water during high flow periods in 1945 will be published later in the year.

These studies mark an important forward step in providing vitally needed information important both to industry and to the general public. It is the first step toward the great undertaking now being engaged in by the Commonwealth for the improvement of surface water in every part of the State.

5 LBS. OF SUGAR
WILL SWEETEN 20
QTS. CANNED FRUIT

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham
(Home Economics Representative)
Foresighted home canners who intend to make sweet spreads this year are checking favorite recipes and planning ahead how best to spread out the five pound per person canning sugar ration allowed for sweet spreads and preserves. Fruit sweets make appetizing spreads for bread, especially when table fats are scarce, and pickles and relishes add zest to meals needing a flavor lift.

May we offer the following suggestions on using the 5-pound sugar allowance:

To conserve the most fruit, fami-

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, June 6.—The Rohm and Haas team moved into undisputed possession of second place in the Bristol Suburban League by defeating the Schutte-Koerting nine, 14-4, last evening on the Echo Beach field. The winners made 10 hits.

John Kennedy started on the hill for the Schutties but was hard and failed to hold a 3-1 lead given him by his mates in the first. He was relieved by Samsel.

Dougherty pitched for the chemical mixers and held the home team to a pair of hits. "Seddie" Caro, of the Rohm and Haas nine, hit a home run with the bases bare in the first.

The other Suburban League contest between Diamond and Badenhausen was called off because of wet grounds.

ilies may choose to forego sweet spreads and use the sugar for canning. Five pounds of sugar is enough to sweeten 20 quarts of canned fruit.

If the entire 5-pound allowance is used for sweet spreads, it should be possible to make from 20 to 40 average-sized jelly glasses—that is, one-third pint. Yields vary with type of spread, method of cooking, and whether or not sugar stretchers are used.

Fruit butters are the most sugar economical of the sweet spreads, requiring only half as much sugar as fruit pulp used. A pound of sugar will make about 3 pints of a butter.

In jam and preserve recipes that ordinarily call for equal parts by weight of sugar and fruit, the proportion can satisfactorily be cut to ¾ as much sugar. With this proportion, 1 pound of sugar will make around 1½ to 2 pints, or 4 to 6 jelly glasses of jam.

For jellies, a pound of sugar made up with a pint of fruit juice yields on the average 1½ pints, which would fill about 4 glasses. When jelly recipes call for ¾ to 1 part sugar for every part by measure of fruit juice, use the smaller proportion of sugar. Jelly-making is a delicate art, and tinkering with jelly recipes by any but experienced jelly makers is unwise. Failure may mean loss of precious sugar.

To stretch sugar and increase yields, honey may replace up to ½ the sugar in jams or preserves. Corn sirup may replace up to ¼ the sugar in jams, and ½ the sugar in preserves. Spreads made partly with honey will be as sweet as those using all sugar; those with corn sirup, slightly less sweet.

Sweet pickles and relishes often take as much sugar as spreads. However, some pickles take only a little sugar. Others, such as dills and sauerkraut, take none.

STATE COLLEGE, (INS)—Artificial breeding of cattle has grown in popularity among Pennsylvania farmers, according to Pennsylvania State College dairy specialists. Approximately 50,000 cows will be bred artificially during 1945 compared to 15,000 in 1944 and 1500 in 1943, they said.

Marriage Licenses On Upward Trend

were granted, exactly the same number as in April. In June last year 77 licenses were granted, and at the time 70 per cent of the applicants were non-residents of Bucks county.

Last year's June total of 77 was the poorest "sixth month" on record in Bucks county, and because of this fact, a better mark is looked for in June this year. The May business, as has been the case for several months, included a lot of furloughed and discharged soldiers.

The marriage license docket for May showed that 60 per cent of the applicants were non-residents of Bucks county, with Philadelphia providing most of the non-resident applicants.

During May, 19 divorces were among the 152 individual applicants. Nine different states were represented in the May group. For the first time in months the word

"unemployed" was noticed on the "occupation line," but that is very rare.

The average of the male applicants was 26 and the females averaged 24.

The highest June marriage license business on record in Bucks county was in June, 1934, "in the good old days" when 300 couples were granted licenses by Miss Eleanor D. Worthington, of Hartsville, who was then Clerk of Orphans' Court. Then came the three-day marriage license law in Pennsylvania, requiring medical examinations and other details, and then the war and a decided decrease in business—but with it all the elimination of hasty marriages and "gig weddings."

ica's competitive industries would leave this nation a shorn lamb exposed to extremely wintry winds.

Bretton Woods is a device to lend American credit to foreign nations so that they may buy our goods and pay for them with our money.

It is also a tricky scheme to replace—or at least supplement—the currencies of various nations, including the United States, with a new form of international money. Exactly what this would do to American currency, property and investments is something no one really knows.

In a world of jealous and suspicious nations, the idea of such an international bank becomes fantastic.

The use foreign nations have made of lend lease is proof enough of the dangers of this type of internationalism.

Russia used our lend lease, not only to war against Germany, but to consolidate her hold on the Balkan and Baltic States, Poland, Yugoslavia, etc.

France is reported to have used lend-lease equipment in its operations in Syria.

Even Great Britain, most nearly co-operative of any of the large powers, has been accused of slippery practices with various foods and other commodities sent under lend-lease.

Even at the best, the trade agreements and Bretton Woods plans were doubtful; in today's world, unless there is a rapid change for the better, they are futile and immensely dangerous.

Let's put both in cold storage at least until the rest of the world shows signs of being ready for this type of co-operation.
